

ROTASYSTEM, established in 1993, is a service provider for many different branches of industry. A lot of customers appreciate since that time the great service potential and the fast organization. This is also for years the guarantee for the growth of the company and the basis of long-standing customer relationships.

As a subcontractor, service provider and consulting company for products like printing presses, thermal VOC pollution control solutions, noise control systems and air humidification systems, ROTASYSTEM offers with its business partners and a decentralized organization permanently new and future-oriented solutions and methods in order to increase the availability and endurance of the customers systems and to fulfil, in the interests of the customers, the legal criteria concerning the environment.

For additional information go to www.rotasystem.de.